Dear Parents/Caregivers,

As part of our learning about positive mental health, we are learning to apply the skill of active listening. Ask your child to tell you what this means and how it is helpful.

Have a look at the lists below for ways to practise active listening skills. Tips that help all of us make our conversations more meaningful:

- Eye contact: Turn off and tune out all other media. Focus on the speaker.
- Body language: Nod, open your arms, and share the same "space" (e.g., sit down to reduce a height difference).
- Pass it back: Try statements that begin with Are you saying that ...; So what you are telling me is ...; Oh, that must have felt
- Acknowledge: Let others know you "hear" what is said.
- Ask questions: What does that look like? feel like? sound like?
- Agree to disagree: Let others know that you may not always agree with what is said, but that you both need to respect opinions.

Questions that help open the doors to communication:

- Wow! You look excited! What's up?
- I can tell that you are (sad, stressed, upset) by the expression on your face. Let me know if you want to talk about it.
- If you had to change one thing about the way today went, what would it be? Why?
- What's something that you really enjoyed about school today?
- Did you experience a feeling of calm today at some point? What were you doing? What do you think made you feel calm?

Thanks for your interest!

Sincerely,
